Using Evidence-Based Programs to Best Support Military Families: An Intro to the Continuum of Evidence

The Continuum of Evidence (Continuum) was created by the Clearinghouse for Military Family Readiness to assist professionals who support individuals and families, military and civilian, by helping to reduce barriers with the implementation of evidence-based programs, such as lack of time to find evidence and lack of expertise in reading and evaluating evidence. In order to help improve the health and well-being of families, this webinar will provide professionals with information about evidence-based programs and how it can be used to support them in making informed decisions based on individual needs, circumstances, and resources.
